Amman Stock Exchange is a Full Member at the WFE

The World Federation of Exchanges (WFE) has accepted the full membership of Amman Stock Exchange (ASE) during its annual meeting, which was held in Shanghai/China between October 14-15, 2007. The Chairman of the ASE, Mr. Mohammad S. Hourani, and the CEO, Mr. Jalil Tarif participated in the meeting. Mr. Hourani gave a speech as gratitude of the Federation board and directors for their trust in the ASE, and he assured that the ASE would always adhere to the international standards. He added that the ASE's full membership came as a result of the developments of Jordan capital market in general and the technical, legislative developments of ASE in particular, besides abiding by transparency and disclosure principles.

Mr. Tarif said that since the ASE has been accepted as an affiliate member in 2004, it has worked hard to meet the Federation's requirements and a delegation has made an official visit to ASE on the purpose of inspecting the compliance to the international principles of the securities markets. The inspectors presented a report to the Federation's Board on which the ASE was elected a full member at the WFE. The report praised the advanced technical and surveillance levels of the ASE and the Jordan Securities Commission (JSC) efficiency in increasing the transparency, disclosure and investors protection.

This membership is considered an indicator about the investment climate in the members markets to the investors around the world, as many investors prefer to invest in member markets of the ASE, which are distinguished by a high caliber.

The ASE's full membership will contribute to its ability to benefit from other members experiences through mutual cooperation. Whereas the WFE is an important reference in the field of securities in regard to the principles of trading, clearance, disclosure, brokers and investors protection. The WFE is also the biggest world assembly of stock exchanges. The WFE consists of 58 members from different countries constituting 97% of market capitalization of the entire world exchanges such as New York Stock Exchange, NASDAQ, London Stock Exchange, Euronext, OMX Exchanges, Tokyo Stock Exchange and Germany Stock Exchange.

An Investment Conference in New York City
Under the patronage of the Jordan Securities Commission, the Amman Stock Exchange, in cooperation with the Bank of New York Mellon and Auerbach Grayson Company and in partnership with the Jordan Securities Depository Center, organized a Jordan Capital Market Conference in New York during the period October 3-4, 2007. The Conference aimed at achieving interconnection with the International Capital Markets and international investors. The meeting was attended by chairmen of the ASE and SDC, shareholding companies listed at the ASE and around 80 investment managers representing major financial and industrial institutions in the United States of America.

The Executive Chairman of the JSC, Dr. Bassam Al-Saket on his part presented the most important economic indicators and legal frameworks that govern the capital market in Jordan, as well as the tasks undertaken by the JSC in the areas of monitoring, legislations, law enforcement and investors protection. He talked about the development witnessed by the Jordanian capital market in terms of disclosure and transparency, as well as the volume of foreign ownership in the market that is close to half the volume of the capital value in the market. Dr. Al-Saket said that the meeting in New York represents a translation of one of the items of the capital market strategy, which comes in line with the directives of HM King Abdullah II Bin Al-Hussein for strengthening the market, increasing foreign investment and creating an attractive investment environment in order to make Jordan an advanced financial center in the region. It also provides financial companies and national institutions the opportunity to present their achievements and the investment opportunities available to international investors, and allows investors to learn about the current legislations and regulations that govern the work of capital market institutions as well as future trends, particularly in the areas of disclosure, market development and regulation, and the measures that emphasize the rule of law on trading for the purpose of protecting investors.

Mr. Jalil Tarif, the CEO of ASE reviewed the investment opportunities at the Amman Stock Exchange, as well as the history of the Jordanian capital market and the latest legislative, technological and quantitative developments witnessed in the market. He stressed that the ASE was able to attract more foreign investments, exceeding 45% of the total market value, indicating that this was due to the investors' confidence in investing at the ASE, which enjoys complete freedom of capital movement, the absence of taxes on capital gains, and distribution in an attractive investment structure and economic openness.

Mr. Tarif also added that the ASE achieved a specific step in the legislative and technical domains, it also became a full member at the World Federation of Exchanges, which is considered as a turning point and an international recognition of the ASE.

The CEO of the SDC, Mr. Samir Jaradat, reviewed the role that SDC plays in the processes of settlement and clearing and ownership transfer. He also addressed the international standards that are applied by SDC and that contribute to enhancing confidence in the Jordanian capital market.

A number of Jordanian companies which took part in the conference: Arab Bank, Tameer Jordan Holdings Public Shareholding, United Arab Investors, Middle East Complex for ENG. Electronic and Heavy Industries, Jordan Investment Trust, Jordan Phosphate Mines, Jordan Kuwait Bank, Jordan Telecommunication, Global Investment House. Representatives of those companies, which represent 60% of the total market Capital, gave presentations about their companies, their past, current and future projects, and their impact on the profit of these companies.

Following the presentations of capital market institutions and companies, bilateral meetings were held between the Jordanian companies and investors interested in investing in the Jordanian market. The meetings came in response to the investors' wishes to explore investment opportunities in these companies. A total of 26 bilateral meetings were held with leading investors.

The Executive Chairman of the JSC, Dr. Bassam Al-Saket and the CEO of the ASE, Mr. Jalil Tarif met the CEO of New York Stock Exchange, Mr. John Thai. During the meeting they reviewed the ways of cooperation between the New York Stock Exchange and Jordan Capital Market, they also agreed on holding a series of training and technical program in Amman and New York to strengthen the capacities of the employees of Jordan Capital Market.

October 2007

Market Watch Live Service

Amman Stock Exchange (ASE) has launched the Market Watch Live program through its website, which comes as a realization of its policy in fostering disclosure and transparency in Jordan capital market. The ASE seeks to provide a fair, efficient market to meet investors needs. The program, which was in-house developed, will enable investors at the ASE to follow up their investments live day-to-day. This service would contribute to increasing investment in securities in Jordan, especially that it would provide live information to the investors worldwide. This service comes in line with the ASE's efforts to improve ways of information dissemination, which will help investors in taking the right investment decision.

This program provides several services such as market depth inquiry (best 5 buy and sell orders), latest 20 executed orders, best 10 increasing companies and most decreasing ones in stock price, best 10 companies according to trading volume, graph that shows change in index value and company price. This service comes as an important step to introduce the internet trading service, which is under final testing. There are three varieties of the program, which suit the requirements of the investors. They differ in the quantity and the quality of the provided information. The first choice is a free-of-charge version with 15 minutes delayed information. The second choice is a version that aims at enabling investors to watch the securities trading and it basically serves investors who are interested in watching a specific number of stocks live during the trading session with the possibility of adding and removing stocks from the list. On the other hand, the third choice is an advanced version that entitles investors to watch the entire traded securities and to make more than one list of selected stock that can cover all listed securities. This choice is characterized by advanced qualities since it is directed at senior investors. It also needs special equipments such high-speed connection and high-tech appliances. As for the third version it will be the previously mentioned free version.

The program will be available on the ASE website for free during the first month while the market depth service will be temporarily suspended during the free period since all required information will be available within the program, then it will be re-activated.

The ASE invites all investors to register in the free month through the ASE website 194.165.154.66 [1]and the direct link www.aselive.jo [2]. After the free period, registration will be through brokerage firms and charged according to the required service as clarified on the ASE website.

February 2007

Jordan’s Capital Market Day
Under the patronage of the Jordan Security Commission JSC, the Amman Stock Exchange ASE, in cooperation with the London Stock Exchange LSE and in partnership with the Securities Depository Center SDC, organized a Jordan Capital Market Day seminar at the London Stock Exchange on the 1st of February 2007, to maintain ways of communications with world financial markets and international investors. The meeting was attended by around 40 investment managers representing the largest funds managers in the United Kingdom that invest in the Middle East and North Africa. Jordanian companies representing major financial and industrial institutions also took part in the day.

The LSE honored Dr. Bassam Saket, JSC Chairman, by awarding him the privilege of opening the trading day at the Stock Exchange. This was attended by the ASE and SDC Board Chairmen and CEOs, as well as a number of capital market officials and all Jordanian companies’ representatives who are attending the seminar. Martin Graham, Markets Director at the LSE, welcomed the Jordanian delegation at the Stock Exchange and indicated the importance of such seminars that provides a major opportunity for Jordanian companies and British investors to meet and explore joint investment opportunities. Graham said that British investors are increasing their interest in investment in developing markets in the Middle East region. He also emphasized the strong relations between Britain and Jordan and indicated that such seminars will enhance relations between the ASE and the LSE.

Dr. Bassam Saket on his part presented the most important economic indicators and legal frameworks that govern the capital market in Jordan, as well as the tasks undertaken by the JSC in the areas of monitoring, legislations, law enforcement and investors’ protection. He talked about the development witness by the Jordanian capital market in terms of disclosure and transparency, as well as the volume of foreign ownership in the market that is close to half the volume of the capital value in the market. Dr. Saket said that the meeting at the LSE represents a translation of one of the items of the capital market strategy, which is in line with the directives of HM King Abdullah II Bin Al-Hussein for strengthening the market, increasing foreign investment and creating an attractive investment environment in order to make Jordan an advanced financial center in the region. It also provides financial companies and national institutions the opportunity to present their achievements and the investment opportunities available to international investors, and allows investors to learn of the current legislations and regulations that govern the work of capital market institutions as well as future trends, particularly in the areas of disclosure, market development and regulation, and the measures that emphasize the rule of law on trading for the purpose of protecting investors.

The seminar acquired a great deal of attention from media outlets like the Arabic and English CNBC channels, the BBC and others. In an interview with the widespread economic CNBC station, Dr. Saket said that the reason for selecting London to host this seminar stems from its stature as an international investment center. He also talked about investment opportunities in Jordan, remarking that Jordan is a country that moves towards change and does not wait for change to come to, that Jordan enjoys an excellent investment climate and a free economy with enormous investment opportunities, as indicated by the major growth of direct investment in Jordan in recent years.
